

MANOS NEGRAS

Latitude Winemaking

Photo of Jeff Mausbach from the Dec. 15 2010 issue of Wine Spectator

Real winemakers get their hands dirty. Hands black with wine. That's how we make these hand-crafted wines. Rolling up our sleeves and getting our hands dirty. Manos Negras focuses on latitude winemaking. Argentina and Chile's winemaking regions stretch 1,500 miles north to south along the Andes. Each latitude possesses a unique terroir with singular combinations of soil and temperature which are ideally suited for different varietals. Manos Negras uses the unique skills of three immigrants to Argentina-New Zealand winemakers Duncan Killiner and Jason Mabbett, and American wine educator Jeff Mausbach- as well as the renown Argentine viticulturist Alejandro Sejanovich to craft wines based on exciting terroir-varietal combinations.

Manos Negras Malbec (Altamira, Mendoza, Argentina)

The 2008 Manos Negras Malbec was listed as the Best Malbec in Argentina in Clarín (Argentina's most widely read newspaper).

90 points ('07) & "Outstanding Value" ('10), Wine Advocate.

Manos Negras Pinot Noir (Añelo, Patagonia, Argentina)

90 points ('08), Wine Advocate:

"Light to medium cherry red color; cinnamon, clove, strawberry, and cherry aromas and flavors."

Manos Negras Torrontés (San Juan, Argentina)

90 points ('10), Int'l. Wine Review; 91 points ('09), Wine Advocate:

"Blended with 5% Viognier; fragrant with restraint, lively acidity, citrus notes add complexity."

Manos Negras Carmenere (Colchagua, Chile)

90 points ('09), Wilfred Wong.

Rich aromas of ripe cherry, dusty earth, and bright and fresh red fruits. Meaty and well-balanced.

Manos Negras Cabernet Sauvignon (Alto Maipo, Chile)

92 points ('09), Wilfred Wong.

Ripe red fruits, licorice, pencil lead, and a hint of mint. Complex with good grip in the mouth and a long finish.

Manos Negras Sauvignon Blanc (Casablanca, Chile)

94 points ('09), Wilfred Wong.

Outstanding aromas and flavors of citrus, key lime, and minerals. Very complex with excellent depth and clarity. Steely and fresh.
